DUBLIN, Tuesdav, June 29, 1875.

There was a large attendance at Dollymount tomy to witness the great shooting contest between the American and Irish Riflemen. The road from the city to the scene of the shooting, a distance of three miles, was lined during the morning with people on route to the range. American and Irish flags were displayed on all sides. The weather was hazy and a high wind was blowing.

The firing began soon after 11 o'clock at the 800 yards range. A detachment of the 50th Regiment cted as markers. Nearly half the shots had been fired by noon, but so close were the scores that it was impossible to indicate the result of the firing. Both sides were doing fine shooting, and a large majority of the scores were "bull's-eyes." The firing at this range was finished at 1 o'clock. The result was one point in favor of the Irish Team, the total scores standing as follows: Americans, 337; Irishmen, 338. The individual scores were:

The firing then began at the 900 yards range. At o'clock 28 out of 90 shots had been fired by each side. At that stage of the shooting the Americans were 12 points ahead. The shooting at this range was finished at 4 o'clock, and the result was largely in favor of the Americans. The total scores were: Americans, 327; Irishmen, 292. The following were the individual scores out of a possible 60:

The shooting at the 1,000 yards range, which was ever by 7 o'clock, was remarkably fine on both sides. The contest at the 1,000 yards range was won by the by a score of 303, against 299 for the Irishmen. The match has been won by the Amerian Riflemen by a total of 967, to 927 for their Irish epponents. The following were the individual res at the 1,000 yards range:

_ 38 The number of persons who assembled to witness the shooting gradually increased, and by the hour the match closed there were fully 20,000 people on the ground. The victory of the American marks-

n was received with tremendous enthusiasm. A most enthusiastic demonstration was made in favor of the American Team on their return from Dollymount to this city this evening.

A grand banquet in their honor was given to-night by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, at the Mansion House. A large number of distinguished guests, including the Lord Mayors of London and York, were present. The Irish riflemen admit the superiority of the Americans throughout the match, and acknowledge that their victory was fairly won.

The comparative merits of muzzle and breech loaders are widely discussed. The American team breech-loaders, Fulton, Bodine, Dakin and Coleman shooting with Remington rifles, and Gilderaleeve and Yale with Sharpe's rifles. The Irish Team all used Rigby's muzzle-loaders.

The news of the progress of the shooting at Dollymount was noted with intense interest all over the city yesterday. The bulletin-board of TRE TRIBURE was surrounded by an enthusiastic crowd from noon until after 5 o'clock, and when the final tidings of "victory" had been posted, cheer after cheer arose from the throng. Similar scenes were witnessed around the bulletins of other newspapers, and at the news-rooms in Beaver-st., where the news was received ahead of any other place in New-York, the merchants flocked in continuously for he purpose of watching the dispatches from Dublin. The Tilton-Beecher jury was forgotten for the time by all es, and the excitement ran high when the results of the splendid 900-yard shooting were displayed in the ence of an otherwise not enthusiastic crowd of staid ipping merchants, routine clerks, and keen brokers. When, finally, after a long interval, the news of the 1,000 yard shoeting came, there was no limit to the cheering which spread through the street till it reached Delmon loo's, where it was taken up with renewed vigor, and the bealth of the American Team was drunk in full bumpers

Col. Wingate, the captain of the American Team of people anxious to receive definite news from Dublin, even before the result of the shooting could have been possibly known in this country. As early as 11 o'clock a dispatch from San Francisco was received anxiously in quiring for news from Dollymount. A number of the members of the Amatour Rifle Club were on hand; they telt rather disappointed when the result of the 800-yard shooting was announced, especially as it had been elaimed that this range suited the American riflemen various apprehensions entertained by many as to the effect of the Irish atmosphere on the American marksmen, but all these doubts and fears were soon interrupted by the receipt of a message that the Americans were by some of these Western frontlemmen-we have 20 men in our club here who can best them at all times. It needs intelligence besides nerve to be a first-class marksman. This Bodine, for instance, is just the kind of man one would wish to have alongside in moments of great danger. Perfectly cool and collected, he is ready on all ocensions and at every emergency." Fulton next came in for a large share of praise. Without waiting for the announcement of the result, the personal friends of the American Team left the office of Col. Wingate and went to the store of the Remington Arms Company in Broadway, near Chambers st.

EAGER CROWDS IN BBOADWAY.

Here an immense placard, covering the large front window, had been posted, giving the result of the 800 and 900 yards shooting. The place was surrounded by a great crowd, which blocked up the sidewalks, and even extended into the street. The services of two policemen were required to keep traffic unobstructed, but their labors were often attended with considerable difficulty. Clerks appeared to have descried their shops, and sales men their customers. There they stood by the hundreds, most of them with alips of paper and pencils in hand, to note down the different scores, and all full of enthusiasr to get the latest accounts. Telegraph boys were actually lifted over the crowd to hand in the messages to the Remington office, where cierks stood ready to communiate the news to the eager crowd outside. Later in the afternoon a second line was formed on the other side of Broadway, the crowd in front of the Remington store having become too dense to admit of more spectators. Inside the store the business of the Arme Company was entirely suspended, and the store was filled by prominent men and by the American Team's per-onal friends. District-Attorney Phelps, Gen. McMahon, Gen. Shaler, Gen. Kuox, Col. Wingate, Major Parker, Capt. Van Reneselaer, Mr. Parker, Mr. Schermerhorn, Mr. Hartley, Mr. Colwell, Mr. Alford, and a large number of other members of the Amateur Rifle Club were present with the news that the match had been won by the Americans. Then cheers arose which resounded through the large building, and were at once taken up by the crowd outside. The drivers stopped their stages, wondering what it all meant, until they noticed the large placard and drove on their horses the swifter. "Three cheers and a tiger" were again called for and once more given by the crowds in the street. A MEETING OF CONGRATULATION.

When quiet had been somewhat restored, a mass meet ing was organized in the Remington office, Gen. Knox calling the meeting to order. Gen. M. T. McMahon was summoned to the chair. The Chairman in a few words congratulated those present on the glorious victory which had attended the efforts of their friends at Dellymount, and suggested that a cable dispatch embodying the scutiments of the people be at once sent to Dublin. Col. Wingate acted as Secretary of the meeting, and the folowing dispatch was sent by cable without delay:

Col. Gilderaloevo, Dublin, Iroland. Glory Halleiujah i McMahos, Chairman Mass Meet'g. Subsequently, the Mesers. Remington sent the followng dispatches: AMERICAN RIFLE TRAM, Dubles: We congratulate you it is splended success achieved this day with American reach-lunding rifles.

At the agency of Sharp's Arms, on the opposite side of Broadway, scenes equally cuthusiastic were presented during the afternoon, as a number of the friends of the men in the Team who used the Sharp rifle had assembled there. The joy which pervaded the entire body of 250 members of the Amateur Rifle Club was very enthusi astic.

Later in the evening the American victory at Dollymount was the general topic of conversation at the leading places of reart up town. At the Fifth Avenue Fitch at Johnson's, at the Turf Exchange, the splendid shooting of the American Team was in everybody's mouth, and even those who had never fired a shot and never even handled a musket became guite profuse in their exnations of the various scores and of the superiority

To-day or to-morrow the Amuteur Rifle Club will take action in regard to an appropriate celebration of the great victory won yesterday, and will then also set on foot proceedings for the proper reception of the Team on its return to this country. A prominent merchant, who has already contributed $500 toward defraying the expenses of the Team, will give them muster $500, now that they have won in accordance with a promise made to the riflemen before their departure.

BROOKLYN SCANDAL

THE JURY ASK FOR THE

FURTHER INDICATIONS OF HOW DIVIDED - THE CONSPIRACY OF PRICE AND LOADER EXPLODED - BOTH OF THEM IN JAIL COMPESSED PERJURERS-THE COUNSEL OF THE PLAINTIFF AND MR. DANA SERIOUSLY IMPLICATED -LOADER'S ANTECEDENTS DISCREDITABLE.

The developments in the Tilton-Beecher case ye erday were of the most serious and sensational character. The jury did not agree, and their standing is not more definitely known than on previous days. They sent a request for part of the evidence, and the counsel of both sides consented that the whole printed record should be sent to them. The conspiracy of Loader and Price to defame Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton was completely exploded, Loader as well as Price having virtually confessed his perjury.

MORE LIGHT FOR THE JURY. THE INTEREST IN THE VERDICT WANING. Not more than 50 persons, other than the report

ers, were present at the opening of the Brooklyn City Court yesterday. The general interest in the ult decreases with each day. Mr. Murray, Mr. Caldwell, and Mr. Bigelow represented Plymouth Church, but they appeared to be present more for the purpose of denying a story which had appeared in print (with a diagram illustrating the falschood) charging them and Mr. Shearman with signaling the jury. The story was a very absurd one, which any person acquainted with the plan of the Court-house would have recognized at once as false. A TRIBUME reporter happened to be in the room with the gentlemen at the time the signaling is said to have gone on, and knows it could not have occurred. Mr. Beecher and his wife did not appear at all. TRIBUNE reporter, sent to their residence learn the cause, was met at the door by Beecher, who said that Mrs. Henry B. Mr. Beecher was taking a nap, and it would not do to disturb him. He had lost all interest in the trial. Mrs. Beecher, who in the morning had been at the Court-house for a short time, had just left her nome at 3 o'clock and gone to the court-room Young Mrs. Beecher added that her mother had persisted in being present at the court-room, despite the carnest expostulations of her most intime friends, some of whom, a few days since, stated that they feared there would be a reaction, and that she would break down after the excitement of the long trial had subsided. They feared that the strength which had supported her through six long months of intense suspense was due entirely to the constant excitement. They also feared that there might be a like reaction in the case of Mr. Beecher. Mrs. Beecher said that, although she could not state positively, she did not think Mr. Beecher had as yet made any arrangements for leaving town, nor did she believe he would: she thought it more than likely that he would remain in the city all the week. Mrs. Beeches did not enter the court-room, but was seen on the Livingstou-et. side of the building, seated in her carriage, talking to several friends through the open carriage doorway. Her face appeared to be brighter than when she was scated in the court-room during the latter portion of last week, and her manner of conversation was more cheerful and smiling.

Mr. Tilton passed the morning and afternoon at his residence in Livingston-st., for the first time in six months avoiding the Court-house. He was looking well in health, and seemed to be awaiting the action of the jury with more tranquillity than might have been expected under the circumstances. When questioned concerning the new developments in the evidence given by Loader and Price, and the arrest of the former, Mr. Tilton declined to speak on the or on any subject at all connected with the trial. He had persistently refused to be interviewed on the trial since it commenced, and all interviews which appeared in the papers, and purported to come from him, were quite unauthorized. Reticence in this matter he considered to be the more prudent plan, and he had adopted it by the advice of his counsel. He was not present at the examination of Loader before Judge Reilly yesterday morning.

Of the counsel in the case, only Mr. Shearman and Mr. Tracy for the defendant and Mr. Morris and Mr. Pryor for the plaintiff appeared in court. Mr. Tracy and Mr. Hill were in attendance part of the day at the examination of Loader and Price.

The only incident of the day worthy of notice happened about noon. The jury sent down a request to be furnished with the evidence of Mr. Beecher and Mr. Moulton, which they desired to examine. A consultation between the Judge and counsel resulted in the consent of counsel, and the Judge sent word to the jury that the matter would be forwarded to them as soon as the lawyers could properly prepare it. Subsequently it was found that the portions of the evidence asked for could not be conceniently detached, and a consultation between the counsel resulted in an agreement to send the whole of the evidence to the jury. The Judge was consulted on the subject, and as a result copies of the pamphles edition of THE TRIBUNE reports were sent up to the jury, accompanied by a note from the Judge directing them not to read the introductory passages, as they were no part of the sworn testimony.

This request from the jury was generally construed as indicating that there were some points in dispute as to the construction or comprehension of the testimony. It was argued from this that an agreement was still possible if not indeed probable. At the usual hour of adjournment, no further communications having been received from the jury. they were locked up for the night.

An attempt was made last evening to get the counsel together on both sides of the question so as to consider the plan by which the perjured affidavite of Loader and Price could be withdrawn from the record, and the fact of the perjury brought before the jury now out in the Tilton-Beecher case; but owing to the absence of Mr. Beach and the illness of Mr. Fullerton the meeting could not be brought about. The matter, if possible, will be brought be-fore the counsel of both parties to the suit to-day.

A GROSS CONSPIRACY EXPOSED. PRICE AND LOADER CONFESS TO HAVING PERJURED THEMSELVES-THE WHOLE STORY, PREVIOUSLY SWORN TO FALSE-LOADER'S EXAMINATION TO

TAKE PLACE THIS MORNING. The announcement of the arrest of Joseph cader and the confession of John J. Price, the man who stely swore to affidavits declaring they had with mproper acts between Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton, created the greatest excitement and sense tion in Brooklyn. The scene of direct interest was transferred from Judge Nellson's Court to the Police Court of Judge Riley, where the examination of Loader was to be had in continuation of the proceedings of the pight before, when Judge Morris appeared for Loader. As early as 10 o'clock yesterday Mr. Morris and Gen. Pryor of Mr. Tilton's counsel were closeted in the Justice's private room with Loader and Justice Riley. Je Henry Barton Beecher and William Bee Beecher's sons. Later Gen. B. F. Trucy of Mr. Beech ounsel and Assistant District-Attorney Henry Snell came in together. Messrs. Morris and Pryor, much to every person's surprise, loft the court-room s before the case was called. About 11:30 o'clock the case was called, and the fellowing proceedings teek
